Protests Referee Rulings

Former Mayor Joseph E. Clarke Springs Hockey Sensation
ASKS SECOND MAN FOR TONIGHT'S GAME
Telegraphs President of the League Urging Immediate Action

Joseph A. Clark, former mayor of this city, lawyer and well known sportsman, has forwarded a telegram to E. L. Richardson, president of the Western Professional Hockey League in which he requests that a judge of play be placed in tonight's game when the Eskimos play the Saskatoon Skeins in an important league fixture.

Mr. Clark strikes out at Mickey Ion, referee selected to handle the game. To Mr. Clark's way of thinking Mr. Ion's recent rulings have been unfair to Gordon B. "Duke" Keats.

In the game against Vancouver which the Eskimos lost by the score of 2 to 1 played on Feb. 15, Ion played a 25 fine on Keats and suspended him in the third period. Keats spent 25 minutes off the ice in the Vancouver game and when he came back to Edmonton on Feb. 15, the Edmonton man spent 10 minutes in the penalty box. It is the same at Portland when the Eskimos, not one of the local players is penalized.

Mr. Clark can not see why Keats was put off as frequently. He claims that the referee should start any of the fights.

He "threw all of the games played on the ice."

Veteran Mail Driver of Peace River Crosses Great Divide

Donald F. Stewart Dead at Waterhole—Famous Northern Character

WATERHOLE, Alta., Feb. 22.—Donald F. Stewart, old-time mail driver from the Peace River, a veteran of the Boer war and the great war, died in the local hospital Sunday morning, after having been admitted about three weeks ago. His partner of the old stage days, Billy McKinnon, was with him at the last, having just returned from his trip to the north in the afternoon.

Stewart was born in Scotland and came to this country in 1880. He was a well known figure to all coming in over the trail.

His home of splendid physique and as well preserved, that he looked like a military officer, into his old age.

He was a man of many years, younger than he really was when the great war broke out. The spirit of the old soldier was in him.

RECENT ARRIVAL TELLS OF TROUBLES

Says Nearly All Ukrainians Are Eager to Come to Dominion

"The Polish authorities are doing everything they can to prevent people going to Canada, they demand $200 for a passport and that a lot of money in the country," said Joseph Krnar on Monday to the Bulletin through an interpreter in the Ukrainian Colonization Society's office.

The new arrival from Europe states that there are thousands of unemployed in Poland, no money to spend there, and more than the "hard times" which a Canadian can imagine. He said that a party of about 100 and that it will take several months to pay the amount, while the small farmers and the rich who own the land are going to the cities and are getting rich.

All Eager to Come

"Letters from Canada, which have relatives there are passed about from hand to hand," he said, "and they could get away these days of the Ukrainians in Poland would leave at once. They talk a lot about Canada over there."

He says that the Ukrainians are not going to the cities and are getting rich. They are going to the cities and are getting rich.

McIntyre Defeats McMurphy; Upsets All Bonspiel Dope

City Rink Starts Piling Up Score at the Opening and Never Lets Up—Victors Curl at Top Form From Skip Down Line—Other Battles Staged

Archie MacMurphy, skipper extraordinary of the Unity Sask. rink, the rink that had been undefeated until this morning, was bumped rather roughly at the Royal Curl in the 9 o'clock draw by Jack McIntyre when the two squads met in the eighth of the Grand Challenge. The final score was 10 to 1 but the game finished at the tenth end, McIntyre did not count after the ninth.

It was one of the sensations of the bonspiel. Everyone expected McIntyre to put up a winning fight and he did. But the heat that any of the spectators could give McIntyre was that he might win by a small margin. It was a big upset. Right from the start the city rink kept piling up the score and right from the start the MacMurphy rink faded from the picture and were never seriously in the game after the sixth end had been played.

Ship McIntyre, Joe Blair, Bill Shinnier and Fraser Gorton were all curling at the top of their form. Their work was faultless. The lead man, Gorton, was particularly effective with his many brilliant shots and before the supper going on the rink was a scene of confusion. Even MacMurphy missed shots that on some occasions at least he could have made. And the third man, Harry Miller, told from grace simply with his exhibition during the game.

Century's Supply of Salt in Sight Yet Alberta Company Says Demand Exceeds Production

Alberta Salt Dates Back to Days of Early Pioneers but Mine Was Struck by Oil Drillers—Big Development Now Awaits
Arrival of Steel

GLISTERING WHITE MOUNTAINS SAVOR SCENE AT PLANT

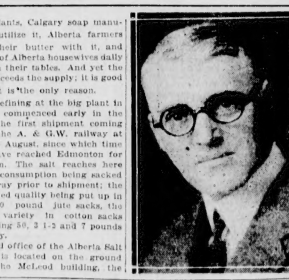

MOUNTAINS of glistering white salt are being piled up at the Alberta Salt company's new plant at Fort McMurray, the only refinery west of the Great Lakes. Ten thousand tons of it will be marketed during 1926 through the Edmonton office. This great new Alberta enterprise is financed entirely by Alberta capital; it is operated by Albertan workmen and the product is sold to residents of the prairie provinces. The history of salt dates back to the days of the early pioneer; northward of McMurray there are outcroppings at La Saline on the Athabasca and the famous salt river near Fort Smith. The old timers of the York boat and the dog team knew of its existence and prized this necessity of the human race, but nothing in the shape of commercial production was attempted until the Alberta Salt company undertook development in 1924.

Interior of plant at Fort McMurray and (below) E. P. Hall, secretary-treasurer of the Alberta Salt Co.

In 1927 while drilling for oil at McMurray the Northern Alberta Exploration company struck a vein of rock salt; then the provincial government undertook the quest, putting a well down 450 feet when a 14 foot vein was encountered, but this work ceased in 1928. The Alberta Salt company have two rich deposits and according to the officials of the company, "there is enough in salt right there for a hundred years." The first bed is 150 feet thick and was struck at a depth of 550 feet; the second was met with at 760 feet and is 35 feet thick. It is pure and of the finest quality, and in this writing is being used by many industries as well as homes all across the plains.

Demand Exceeds Supply
It is being used to cure Alberta lacuna and other ailments in various

Plant on Athabasca
At the junction of Horse Creek with the mighty Athabasca the company's plant is planned; bolting smokestacks, the tall framework of the derrick and a cluster of dwellings backed by the great shade and other buildings necessary to house the machinery and evaporators. Here 20 Alberta workmen are employed. Each day they produce 24 tons of salt on the average, while during the process they use up 120 tons of Alberta, mined coal every week. The buildings are large, the granary house and warehouse are each approximately 100 feet by 120 while another building houses the two 120 horsepower engines and necessary boilers to operate the machinery. As well there are the usual dwellings, machine shops and so on. The plant is managed by Howard Ringling, who has been with the company since its inception, and who recently returned from a "look-see" trip through various similar plants in the East.

TRANSPORTATION IS ONLY DRAWBACK TO PIONEER ADVENTURE

Refined and Screened
In producing Alberta salt for the first process is to pump water down the well; this churns and lifts about transforming the rock salt into a heavy brine which is then pumped to the surface and forced into four storage tanks, each of which has a capacity for 25,000 gallons. The brine is then pumped to a 5,000 gallon pre-heating tank where by the aid of a steam coil system it is prepared for introduction to the granulators. There are a series of granulators each equipped with steam pipes and here evaporation takes place; the water is run off, the last salt removed, and the product is then transferred to the warehouse where it remains for a month until cured. The salt for table use is then put through a kiln dryer and refining screens after which it is sacked, ready for use.

"Refined Salt," New Product
It is the company's intention to put its machinery this summer for the preparation of refined salt, which is recommended by the medical fraternity and for which there is a demand. Other new things are planned too, but one article which the company will not manufacture is black salt used for agricultural purposes. This, according to the company's officials, is one of the most wasteful things in Alberta farm life at the present time. The animal remains licking the salt block for perhaps hours when it should be either working or producing livestock or beef. Instead it could be fed a handful of the Albertan product and sent about its natural business.

The Alberta Salt Company is well satisfied with its pioneer adventure. There is only one drawback to continuous production that being transportation. At present the company's plant is four miles distant from the end of the heavy loads of coal going in and salt coming out have to be hauled on their own ships or wagons, but with a spur line built in this world be eliminated. The long looked for station at Fort McMurray would be a fact, and adequate facilities for the West's newest and fastest growing industry an accomplishment.

JOCK PATTERSON, FUR TRADER IS LIVELIEST CORPSE IN THE NORTH

Jock Patterson, fur trader and one of the best known men in the Territories, is very much alive and kicking despite reports to the contrary from Fort Resolution, Fort Liard and the other fur traders on the Great Slave lake.

Mr. Patterson left Fort Resolution in a gas boat shortly before the fur season, immediately he had done so one of the wicked men which he had left behind him, up on the shore, accompanied by a native hunter, later, Indians from the shore brought word that the trader had been lost in the gas.

The boat is that he, weathered the storm, has been camping all winter on the west arm of the Great Slave lake in the Lockhart river gorge to arrive in the lake and has "made a good look."
